A TRIP UP THE MISSISSIPPI.

CAIRO, ILL., March 14, 1865. Those who remember in the years that have assed how delightful was a trip on the Missis ppi, can hardly realize the sad change in the resent. Years of war, of fratricidal war, have one their work well; and the cities in embryo ith their thriving commerce and pretty villages at once dotted the banks of the great river, are now in ruins, their once happy peoples dead or in the army (which is but another name for desth), and desolation utter and profound reigns over nearly all of the great Valley. There is not an exception below Cairo to the Gulf—all have shared a common fate. A word about New Orleans and then to my trip: Your commercial patrons, once familiar with the city, could not recognize it as the same. Its streets are no longer allow with a business population. are no longer alive with a business population—their occupation is gone. Its port, which in former years was white with the sails of a hunformer years was white with the sails of a nundred vessels from foreign ports, together with scores of steamboats daily arriving and departing, displays a melancholy contrast. Briefly, business is dead, and the former wealthy class are in the Confederacy, or those who remain are in reduced circumstances, exclusive, and are rarely seen. New Orleans is a conquered city, and its people a subjugated people; and I was told by officers of the army that the people were only quiet under the bayonet—there is no loyal-ty there.

Passing from this to the noble steamer Indians, commanded by Captain J. Stut Neal, a capital fellow, with those no less clever gentlehis trade. Of large size and tonnage, and su-perb model, the Indiana will bear comparison of the boat are in all respects complete, and what, with a table equal to your best hotel, polite attentions and music and dancing each night, and a crowd of ladies, this trip has been most pleasant. But to resume.

We start from New Orleans with the old flag flaunting in the breeze; the negroes chant the firemen's song, all rich in melody, and the proud steamer takes ker northward flight. Here and there we pass a frigate, gunboat, or other and there we pass a frigate, gunbost, or other vessel of war, with their guns bearing frowningly on the city, until we reach the picket boost, where we are stopped for a frivolous reacon, but soon pass onward. A storm threatens leseried, the chimneys of the mansion alone standing, and the negro cabins uninhabited. That man is a type of his people. He espoused This is the general history of this once proscrous people.

The plantations under the "Freed" system have not worked well. The past season was, however, singularly unfortunate, hardly a planter saving a tenth part of a crop. There re indeed but few plantations, comparatively, ultivated under this system, but thus far all save been unsuccessful. The negroes do not work well under it; but perhaps another season or so may present a different result. It cerainly should have a fair trial, since any system were an improvement on the chaos which followed the occupation of this country by the odderal army. Here we are at Baton Rouge, to recall the loody fight when John C. Breckinridge's Ken-ickians vainly essayed to capture it, and here

VICE-PRESIDENT JOHNSON TO APOLOGIZE OR Vice-President Johnson to Apologize of Resign.—And now, concerning the Vice-Presi-dent and the humiliating spectacle which on that day he furnished to the world, shall we speak or keep silent? Perhaps there exists some good reason why the sad truth should be suppressed, but no such reason have we yet discerned. We cannot, therefore, join with our three neighbors, the Tribune, the Times, and the Evening Post, in pardoning with silence the great disgrace which Andrew Johnson in-flicted that day upon his country. Had the taflicted that day upon his country. Had the ta-bles been urned, and a similar offence been committed by George H. Pendleton, we can hardly believe that these journals would have laid their fingers on their lips in a hush of critlaid their ingers on their lips in a hush of crit-cism. As for ourselves, we trust we are habitually slow to speak ill of public men, even of such as deserve dispraise; and certainly, among the many journals which have afore-time been hearty in their kind words of Andrew Johnson, none have been heartler than this sheet; but if such an appearance as he pre-cented during his inauguration is to pass withnected during his inauguration is to pass without public rebuke, in these and in other newspaper columns, then there no longer remains to the press any duty of impartial criticism of the press any duty of impartial criticism of the press any duty of impartial criticism. felt it our duty to speak against the excessive use of intoxicating liquors by some of our pub-lic men. It may be asked, What is the duty of public journal in such cases? It see duty of we hold that if a public man is drunken plain. We hold that if a public man is drunken in a private company he is not amenable to comment in the newspapers; but if he be drunken while acting his part on a public occasion, his offence is against the public, and should never be shielded from the just punishment of public censure. In the Senate chamber, on the 4th of March, in presence of the Senate, of the House, of the Cabinet, of the Supreme Court, of the diplomatic corps, of the Senate, of the House, of the Cabinet, of the Supreme Court, of the diplomatic corps, of the newspaper press, of a gallery of ladies, and (during part of the time) of the President of the United States—and on an occasion to be forever historic—the Vice-President elect presented himself to take his solemn oath of office in a state of intoxication. Not in anger but in sorrow do we chronicle this fact, which we have no just right to suppress. A few weeks scrrow do we chronicle this fact, which we have no just right to suppress. A few weeks ago the Speaker of the House of Representatives was commanded by vote of that body to administer a public reprimand to a member who had committed a similar offence with less conspicuous shame. If a member of Congress is to be punished for such an act, shall the President of the Senate remain unpunished? Of course the Senate will choose its own method of reaching the case; a metod which, we trust, will be kind, moderate, and just. But, meanwhile, it is the plain duty of Mr. Johnson either to apologize for his conduct or to resign his office. In the name of an insulted people, we are compelled to demand that so great an affront to the dignity of the republic shall be made to bear a fit penalty, stonement, and warning. FROM THE SOUTH. WIGFALL, "A CURSE TO HIS COUNTRY."

(From the Richmond Sentinel, March 9.]

Senator Wigfall, who has been pursuing a very extraordinary and very reprehensible course during the whole of the present session of Congress, seemed inspired, in his speech of Tuesday night, by a desire to surpass all his previous offences against the public interests. His speech was violent, unpatriotic, and censurable in the highest degree; devoted to the advocacy of extreme fancies, and to the abuse of those who stand infinitely higher than he in the public confidence. He denounced the Virginia Legislature as "a one-horse concern," (where were our Senators that they had no word of rebuke?) denounced the press, poured out his bitterness upon the President, and demanded that he and the Vice-President should resign. [From the Richmond Sentinel, March 9.]

who will not think that Mr. Wigfall should himself take the advice he gives, and resign his sent in the Senate. Had he done so at the beseat in the Senate. Had he done so at the beginning of the session, a great deal of time would have been saved to that body, which has been far worse than wasted. One of the last speeches which the writer heard in the old United States Senate was from Mr. Wigfall, in which he defied the North, and almost invited them to the battle. Little did we then expect, when the war should indeed come, to see him pursue the course which has made his further service during the session now about to close pursue the course which has made his further service during the session now about to close an evil and a curse to his country. Would that he would take pattern from that patriotic body of men who represent the sentiment and the manliness of Virginia, but whom he thinks it allowable to refer to with words of insult. Would that he would support, as he ought to do, the efforts of that eminent patriot, and pure and faithful public officer whom the recould and faithful public officer, whom the people, with a unanimous choice, called to the chief

Mr. Ritchie, he said, was an editor who counselled with Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Pendleton, and the Wythes, but the editor of this paper had never sought information and instruction from Mr. Wigfall. How, then, was it possible for the present editor to fill the place of his illustrious predecessor? The Senator will pardon us the eminent advantages possessed by Mr. Ritchie, and he may rest assured that whenever his countrymen regard him as a Jefferson, or a Madison, or a Menroe, a Pendleton, or a Wythe, this editor will be found his willing disciple; but until that judgment is pronounced, we prefer el of the Senator from Texas.

I hope it may be my good fortune to be associaed with you again in a war against the enemies of our country, and I hope you may then com-mand the same old Ironsides, with her present gallant officers and crew. I know the result ill be victory.

In the late assaults on the forts, the army is mainly indebted to you for its success; for, not-withstanding their gallantry, they could not have passed from traverse to traverse without the aid of your guns, which swept the traverses while the army advanced from point to point; and the highest compliment I can pay your runners is to say that, when I signalled to the General to know if he was not afraid of an accident from your guns ranging so close to his men, he replied; "No; that your accuracy of fire was splendid." When the New Ironsides goes, I shall part with you and her with regret, though no further assistance can be required of her here.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: In your river notices of the 8th ult, is a state ment to the effect that the steamer Tycoon had been selzed at Memphis for "trading stores for wood along the river, and that in a lot of flour, on the boat as freight, was found packed fifty bottles of quinine." These are the facts: the Tycoon is a packet in the Vicksburg and Mem Tyeoon is a packet in the Vicksburg and Memphis trade. On a recent up trip the boat landed for wood. The old negro, the owner of the wood, begged the Captain for some feed for his mule, the surrounding country being submerged by the flood. The Captain gave him a bale of hay, and a few bushels of corn and dats, the deck sweepings that had been saved from the down trip, the bale of hay having been left on the boat by some stock men. After the boat had left the landing, the vigilant "Ald to the Revenue" heard of the transaction, and having an eye, no doubt, to a prospective quarter of a steamboat, promptly reported the Captain to teamboat, promptly reported the Captain to General Buford, at Helena, and the General sent a Lieutenant up to report to General Wash-urne, at Memphis, who of course treated the matter with the contempt it deserved.

I append a paragraph from the Associated Press, despatched from Cairo to the St. Louis Democrat and other papers of the 7th ult. [Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.] SKETCH OF THE MARAUDER QUANTREL

WARRENSBURG, JOHNSON Co., Mo., March 7, 1865. March 7, 1865. Quantrell, the great Missouri and Kansas nurderer and outlaw, is represented to be in kentucky, perpetrating acts of wantonness and tickedness. Permit me to give your readers a warfare. He is said to be a native of Maryland; at all events he at one time during his child-hood lived near Hagerstown in that State, from which he came West some seven years ago, according to the best information I have been able to obtain. He is a very reticent man concerning his past history, thereby evidently impressing his most intimate comrades with the idea that the past life of this man has been one of external winkedness and deposition. nd there, by the power of a mysterious natural will, he gathered around him a band outlaws and jayhawkers, whose deeds of blockers. dreamed that a day would soon come when this demon would return upon a mission of blood to devastate a splendid young city, and leave its blackened ruins and murdered citizens in one common funeral pile. "He who sows the wind, must reap the whirlwind." About the last of February, 1860, Quantrel of Jackson county. He advised Walker exercity, that, on a certain night, his residence would be attacked by these desperadoes. Walker gathered together a number of the citizens of that county, and when his house was attacked at the precise hour and night designated by Quantrell to Walker an unexpected resistance was made. bour and night designated by Quantien to Walker, an unexpected resistance was made, and several of the outlaws were killed; and, under the laws of the State and Government, Walker and his friends were vindicated and justified. I do not now, nor did I ever consider Quantrell a brave man. He will never attack or fight a squad of soldiers of equal numbers with his own. He will never forth could numbers when dismonnted. He cirid, and will have no men around him who are not ready to execute his orders, at any risk, at any cost, from the petty stealing of a quilt to the inhuman murder of a sucking child. [From the Richmond Whig, March 10.] THE TOBACCO SPECULATION AT FREDERICKS-BURG GENERAL GRANT HAD A HAND IN THE THANS-

In deference to the wishes of the military as horities we did not refer to the affair at Fred-ricksburg, which has been a topic of street talk for several days. As there is no longer any ne cessity for reticence, we will state briefly that a portion of Gibbon's division, from the Army of the James, arrived at Fredericksburg last Monday evening in a flotilla of transports, convoyed by two gunboats. The arrival of the enemy was not wholly enexpected, though the people were led to believe that they would not come with any hostile intent. It was understood that with any hostile intent. It was understood that with any hostile intent. It was understood that certain parties, with the combrance of both governments, had perfected an arrangement for the shipment of a large quantity of manufactured tobacco to the United States, for which a lot of bacon was to be sent in exchange. The tobacco was forwarded from this city to Fredericksburg and Hamilton's crossing last week. General Grant was informed of what was going an and determined to play a Tankee trick moon on and determined to play a Tankee trick upon the speculators. He accordingly sent the force mentioned to Fredericksburg to destroy the to-bacco. His orders were executed and the Tankees thereupon returned to their quarters. Some thirty freight cars belonging to the Richmond and Fredericksburg Railroad Company were also destroyed. Some of the people of redericksburg went to the wharf to witness the landing of the Yankees, supposing they were about to carry out the little arrangement in good faith; but they were soon undeceived and scattered. The Yankees did not molest the cities of the control of zens during their stay.

The question is frequently asked who is Gen. Singleton, and what is he doing here? A current report couples his name with a certain tobacco-bacon speculation; but he avers that he has no connection with it. What special business, if any, brought him to Richmond remains unde-FURTHER PARTICULARS OF MR. SINGLETON'S YAX.

KEE TRICK.
[From the Richmond Examiner, March 10.]

The Government does not communicate much news to the public of late days, and this is all right where the publication of such news would give information to the enemy either about our own movements and preparations or about what is befalling their own troops, who happen to be in such a position that the first intelligence of them is expected in the North by the gence of them is expected in the North by the Richmond newspapers. But such reasons for reticence do not exist in the case of those stores of tobacco captured the other day near Fredericksburg. The enemy knew all about that as soon as we, or sooner, and there is no conceivable reason for observing silence on the subject, save the natural apprehension of our sagacious Government that the transaction may draw down censure upon it or some of its officers. The Yankees are very eager to get possession of our tobacco. Next to cotton there is nothing of ours which they covet so much; and, as they cannot come and seize the tobacco stored at nce of them is expected in the North by the of ours which they covet so much; and, as they cannot come and seize the tobacco stored at Petersburg and Richmond, they seem to have bethought them of another plan. A Yankee, named Singleton, has twice asked for a pass to come within our lines, and it has been twice granted. In vain some wary Confederates protested against this, representing that a Yankee could have no honest business here; but we have a Government that despises "public clamor." This Mr. Singleton might be a peace commissioner; he might be sneaking through our lines to bring us singleton ingle of a peace commissioner; he might be sneaking through our lines to bring us an offer of recognizing our independence, or on some gracious mission of that sort. So he was been titled to come along. Soon it became known that he was only on a mission to proknown that he was only on a mission to procure tobacco, by purchase, the payment to be made in bacon, at certain rates agreed upon.
Tobacco accordingly was sent forward by the Fredericksburg road—two hundred thousand pounds of it, or thereabouts—and was waiting at Hemilton's crossing, under charge of Confederate agents until the exchange should be effected. But now, by some chance, some extremely fortuitous coincidence, the store of precious tobacco had scarcely arrived there, and was still in Confederate hands, when, behold, a large force of Yankees happened to appear in the same place, having come in steamers up the Rappahannock, and they seized the whole of the tobacco, and either carried it off or burned it. And now where is the bacon? We must give full credit to the ingenious nation which contrived and executed this little scheme. It is a perfect specimen of the species of transaction called "a Yankee trick," which means a very clever swindle. Is our sagacious Government

In pursuance of a brief notice, a very large and enthusiastic meeting of the loyal citizens of Paducah assembled in Market square, on the afternoon of Saturday, February 25, 1865, to express the gratification of the community upon the reinstatement of Gen. S. Meredith in the command of the District of Western Kentucky. At the suggestion of Mr. P. D. Yeiser, Alfred Bradshaw, Esq., was called to the chair, and F. M. Murray was appointed Secretary.

The object of the meeting having been stated by the chairman, a committee, consisting of J. the chairman, a committee, consisting of J by the chairman, a committee, consisting of J. B. Husbands, Judge Smedley, James N. Beadles, and W. A. Bell, was selected to prepare resolutions expressive of the public feeling. During the retirement of the committee, Dr. J. M. Mackenzie eloquently recited the services of General Meredith in suppressing the rebellion, described the admirable effect of his policy in reclaiming this district to the support of the Government, denounced, in strong and fitting Dress Trimmings, Fancy Goods, and Notions, PATTERN BONNETS AND TRIMMED HATS ty, miscalling themselves Union men, who are dissatisfied with everything that does not pro-mote their own miserable selfishness, and con-

Metalta, we are teachy in the full tide of rejoicing because of his restora-tion to us; and, as a testimony to the world, we now declare that he is one of the noblest of men, and that the masterly manner in which he has discharged the onerous duties devolved upon him, his sincerity of purpose and devotion to his country, his agency in quieting the excite-ment in his district and bringing the great body use him, sought his removal from command in the hope to subserve their selfish interests, and without regard to the public good. 3. Resolved, That a very large majority of the original and true Union men of this community, of its business men and of the responsible, law-abilding, and honest supporters of the Government throughout this District, ardently desire the permanent retention of General the Secretary to communicate the foregoing proceedings for publication, to the Federal Union of Paducah, and to the newspapers of pleasant humor, dispersed.

SATURDAY, MARCH 18, 1865.

The official despatch from General Grant to the Assistant Secretary of War, contained in our telegraphic news of yesterday, and based upon a letter dated 12th inst., received by him from General Sherman, gives the most encouraging accounts of the Federal movements in Carolinas. General Sherman, it appears, had, down to the date of his letter, met with no formidable opposition; his army was in excellent condition. He had taken eighty cannon on his march and destroyed immense quantities of powder, &c., &c. General Sherman's statement of the rumored Wade Hampton victory is very gratifying. It appears that General Kilpatrick was surprised at his headquarters, when all but two of his staff were captured, but General Kilpatrick soon ranged his men for battle, and proceeded to thrash Hampton severely, recapturing everything the rebels had taken. We may, therefore, rest perfectly easy as to the progress of General Sherman. We hope that General Schofield has joined him by this time, and it is highly probably that he has done so. The junction of Sherman and Schofield will render our forces utterly invincible. The rapid decline in gold. as reported by telegraph, affords conclusive evidence that the military situation is, in all respects, satisfactory.

RECONCULATION .- The military situation at present is highly auspicious of a complete national triumph. The remaining strength of the rebellion is chiefly confined to the army of General Lee, in the vicinity of Richmond, and that under General Johnston, now opposing the march of Sherman through the Carolinas. The ast intelligence from the Union forces tells of victory over the enemy, and all indications now clearly point to the overthrow of every formidable military organization of the South before the close of the ensuing summer. The people We look at this subject through no long nurof the South appear utterly disheartened under the pressure of repeated disaster, and their leaders are engaged in the most embittered dis-

It is reasonable to believe that the Southern people are worn and weary of the war, which they plainly see is fraught only with destruction to their property and themselves. Is not this, therefore, an exceedingly befitting period of the war when, taking advantage of the momentous victories achieved by our arms, the national auorities might end the conflict without addiional bloodshed, upon terms at once magnaninous and honorable to the country? We have always anticipated that a point would be reached in the progress of the war at which statesmanship should take the place of generalship, and reconcile the opposing sections upon just and enduring terms. We do not wish that the Southern people shall be dragged back to their allegiance with their mouths in the dust and with ropes around their necks. They were our brothers in the past, they are our brothers now by all the ties of civilization, language, and blood, and in future we would have them as pride of the nation hereafter will require them to be such. There must at last be conciliation between the parties to this great struggle. War alone, with its horrid features, can never achieve that result, but it may drive a brave though erring people into hopeless desperation, resulting in their irretrievable ruin, and rendering our own nominal triumph in reality an inglorious defeat.

the New York Tribune, the leading Republican

We believe, therefore, that a true peace is, in all human probability, not far off; and we be-lieve its advent may be hastened and assured by wise and prompt action on the part of our Gov-ernment. If the President should issue a brief and lucid proclamation, appealing to the Southern people not to protract a struggle which has become hopeless, and stating distinctly the terms on which they may be once more at peace with their country, we believe that there would be little further bloodshed.

The rebellion is now kept from instant and utter collapse by the false cry that nothing is to be gained by submission—that all the property of rebels is confiscated and all their lives for-feited under our laws, so that, while the courses have a few and the course have a f age born of desperation may vet achieve such age form of desperation may yet achieve suc-cess, there is in the opposite course no hope whatever. This is most untrue; yet it has a cer-tain plausibility to the mind of the ignorant. Let the President once more urge the rebels to lay down their arms, proffering them induce-ments to do so, and he will thereby divide them into two parties—one inclined to peace and re-union; the other furiously intent on fighting to the last. Standing distinctly by itself, the weak-ness of this latter would be so palpable that three new and vehement proclamations per day could not keep it in countenance. It would specific yould post and disperse, and the rebelope that this course is to be taken?

We indorse the above wise and timely sngrestions. We believe that a sincere, magnanimous word from the lips of Abraham Lincoln spoken to the Southern people, now hopelessly encumbered by disaster, would inspire their hearts with that old love for the Union, which, by opening the way of peace, would ere long bind enew, and forever, the broken ties of the nation. Let that word be spoken in the spirit of affection and mercy; let it come as a word of proud magnanimity. It would vindicate the ntegrity of the Government in this struggle, its objects being peace and Union. It would demonstrate the sincerity of our rulers in their profession of devotion to the issue at stake-the e-establishment of the Union upon terms of honor and equality to all its members.

THE PANIC IN NEW YORK .- The gold panic in New York seems to be furious. On Thursday gold advanced in the morning to 1761/4, but dropped in the afternoon to 1721/2, and at night it ran down to 165%, leaving off at 167%. The panic extended to stocks, and broke prices down considerably. At the close there was a strong pressure to sell. The foreign news, no doubt, contributed largely to this new stampede. The following compares the prices of tocks and gold at the close for several days:

At the time we write gold is repo

ing declined to about 162 or 163. There is no telling how long the panic is to last; it seems to have gathered a very strong headway. The fine news from Sherman and Sheridan produces this important result.

The rebel Senator Wigfall, of Texas, ha just made a very savage speech at Richmond He is greatly incensed at the passage of the negro enlistment law by the rebel Congress. Wigfall is an intense rebel, has always been hostile to the Federal Union, and labored assiduously during his entire service as a member of the United States Senate to bring about the present rebellion. He was never satisfied with anything, being essentially a disturber of the peace. The Richmond Sentinel, in reporting his recent speech in that city, says:

His speech was violent, unpatriotic, and cen-His speech was violent, unpatriotic, and cen-surable in the highest degree; devoted to the advocacy of extreme fancies, and to the abuse of those who stand infinitely higher than he in the public confidence. He denounced the Vir-ginia Legislature as "a one-horse concern" (where were our Senators that they had no word of rebuke), denounced the press, poured out his bitterness upon the President, and demandd that he and the Vice-President should resign.

Wigfall, now that he sees inevitable failure written upon the brow of the rebellion, will endeavor to achieve additional notoriety as a boisterous leader in the general "break up."

A telegram announces that on the 16th inst. but one newspaper was published in Richmond, Virginia-the Daily Dispatch. It appeared as a half sheet, apologizing that all the printers had gone into the army to perform special duty for a short while. The half sheet as stated was gotten up by "a few friends who are exempt from the service." The rebels at Richmond, we are led to believe, are contemplating some extraordinary movement—perhaps the evacuation of the city. The fact that the PIANOS newspapers are not published indicates that their material is being removed to some point deemed more secure. won't give any information-and give it.

The policy of the Louisville Democrat is promote a party organization in Kentucky based exclusively upon the old prejudices in favor of the institution of slavery. Those prejudices, we know, are rapidly passing away, under the influence exerted upon the institution by the present civil war, but the editor of the Democrat hinks that they still sufficiently control the popular mind to give vigor and victory to a proslavery party in this Commonwealth. He plainly sees that slavery is lost-lost, just as all Union men said it would be, when, four years ago, the secessionists determined to risk the chances of war for its preservation. We all then saw with unerring prophecy that amid the vicissitudes inevitable to such a struggle slavery would surely go down. The editor of the Democrat fully recognized the fact, and, in 1862. when the predictions of Union men touching the matter seemed near the point of realization, he said: If the rebels determine to suffer all the cala ities of the most protracted war, all they suffer and all they apprehend is their own fault. The longer this rebellion is carried on the worse for

The above is a faithful statement of the case. Time after time has a warning similar to the above appeared in these columns, yet we have earnestly struggled to preserve in this State the ordinary safeguards of slavery. We have at all times, however, stood prepared to treat the subject as the unavoidable tendency of events should require. We now see that slavery in Kentucky, nor in any other State, cannot be preserved, and we are unwilling to make a useless struggle to maintain it. The war has fatally wounded slavery. This fact is recognized by every intelligent man in Kentucky. The rebels themselves now concede its abandonment. We believe now, as we said at the beginning, that the death-knell of the institution was sounded when the first rebel gun was fired at Fort Sumpter. Whatever difficult social problems emancipation may devolve upon statesmanship, we regard this one thing fixed from the acts and declarations of the rebels themselves, that slavery is subverted and surrendered even by the people of the South.

tured prejudice; we regard it wholly in a practical light, without reference to any sentimental considerations. Does any candid man now expect to save slavery in this Commonwealth? None, we presume, who has reflected for a moment on the subject. With this view, recognizing the actual condition around us, we have urged, and now urge more earnestly than ever, that the organic law of Kentucky shall be adapted as speedily as possible to the destiny inevitably before us. We are not to be swayed from this clear path of duty by the puerile charge that we have turned abolitionist, that we have joined the Republican party. We trust that no man capable of thinking and acting for the interests of Kentucky can be influenced by such reproach. Twelve months hence there will be no slavery in Kentucky, either real or nominal. By a recent act of the rebel Congress authorizing the enlistment of three hundred thousand slaves in their armies, slavery has been virtually abolished in the rebel States. Has not this question, then, of slavery or no slavery. been virtually settled North and South? equals in the family of States. The dignity and There is to be no more slavery on this continent. Why, then, persist in a useless agitation to preserve it in Kentucky? ply to keep alive old prejudices against emancipation. The question before our people is not whether they shall maintain slavery, for, practically, the institution has ceased in their midst; but the question is, shall they proceed to adapt the laws of the State to the actual condition of emancipation? Is Health Worth Having? If it is, protect it. It is a jewel as easily lost as virtue the tonic used for this purpose. The medicinal tinc tures, all of which are based on common alcohol, are dangerous. Quinine, as everybody finds out who takes much of it, is a slow poison. One safe protective from all unhealthy atmospheric influences exists, and one only. This powerful preventive is HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS-a compound of the purest stimulant ever manufactured, with the most effective tonics, alteratives, regulators, and depurators that chemistry has yet extracted from the botanical kingdom. Convalescents, languid and feeble from recent sickness, will find the Bitters an incomparable res torative, not disagreeable to the taste, and eminently invigorating. No other stimulant produces the same effect as this Stomachic. It does not excite or flutter the nerves, or occasion any undue arterial action, but at once soothes and strengthens the nervous system and the animal spirits. m7 d13&w2

EUREKA

HAIR RESTORATIVE THIS IS NO HAIR DYE. REASONS WHY THE EUREKA SHOULD BE USED It will cleanse the scalp, and thereby promote the growth of the hair.

If the hair is dry, stiff, and lifeless, it will give it a softness, and lively and youthful appearance.

If the hair is becoming thin, weak, and falling off, it will restore its strength and beauty.

If the hair is gray, or becoming so, it will restore it it so riginal color without staining scalp or hands.

It is free free from all impurities or poisonous drugs. It is no hair dye, but an infallible restorative, and will do all that is promised, when used by the directions.

Hear what Dr. Van Zandt (one of the oldest and best physicians, and most celebrated ooulist in the State) says in regard to the EUREKA.

St. Louis, December 17, 1864

says in regard to the EUREKA.

St. Louis, December 17, 1864

Mr. Flaher has submitted to my inspection the recipe for making his Hair Restorative, and, after a careful examination of the different ingredients which enter into its preparation, I have no hestation in pronouncing it (physically speaking) a most happy compound, and especially suited to the requirements of Nature, and the designs of its inventor. Therefore, it cannot prove otherwise than one of the most valuable preparations of its kind now in use, for changing the color of the hair and restoring the scalp from a diseased to a healthy condition, I have examined and conversed with persons using the Eureka, and find that it does all that is proposed in cleansing, keeping the hair from falling out, and restoring it when gray.

WM. VAN ZANDT, M. D.

(From the St. Louis Republican, Dec. 13, 1863.) ing it when gray. WM. VAN ZANDT, M. D.

[From the St. Louis Republican, Dec. 13, 1863.]

EUREKA.—It is not often that a professional gentleman of the reputation of Dr. Van Zandt, indorses so full the value of a preparation for the restoration of the color of the hair, or any other particular object. This he does however, in the eard published to-day by Mr. R. Fisher and to which gray heads are referred.

BARNUM'S HOTEL, ST. LOUIS, 2007, CARCA, MR. FISHER:

Dear Sir; I have used one bottle of your Eureka Hair Restorative, and to my full satisfaction. It does all that you claim for it, having restored my gray hair to its original color.

THERON BARNUM, Late of Barnum's Hotel.

The Agent might produce hundreds of other certificates from gentlemen and ladies that have used the Eureka, but thinks the above all-sufficient.

SATURDAY, MARCH 18, 3 A. M.

Good Work .- A company of State troops was equipped on the 11th instant, at Lebanon, Kentucky, under the gallant Capt. G. W. Penn. On the 13th, a detachment was sent out or scout duty, and, after a chase of some twenty miles, the men overtook a band of reputed horse-thieves, and, after slight resistance, captured three of their number. On the same day they captured three Confederate soldiers, and on the 15th they reported all the prisoners to the Provost Marshal of the Fourth Congressional District. These recreant wholesale dealers in horse and mule flesh have heretofcre cluded the vigilance of both the civil and military authorities. We call this good work.

GENERAL ALLEN PROMOTED.—General Robert Allen, Chief Quartermaster of the Military Department of the Mississippi, has been appointed Brigadier-General by brevet in the regular army, his commission to date from July 4th, 1864. This is a deserved promotion, as General Allen has proved himself to be a faithful officer by more than thirty years' service in the army. He is a man of marked ability, and his extensive experience renders him fully competent to grace any position within the gift of the Government. We congratulate the General and the army upon his promotion. In the Quartermaster's Department he is now ranked by but one officer in the service, and that officer is General Meigs, Quartermaster-General.

The wind yesterday was on a jolly spree wled, blustered, eddied, and played the mischief generally. It created a terrible commotion in the streets. Sign-boards creaked, window-shutters flapped, volumes of dust were hurled into the eyes by the fitful gusts, crinoline sailed majestically before the breeze, hats were blown from heads, and many a luckless adventurer, with hair disordered by the wind, joined in the headlong chase after truant crownpieces. It was a blustering day indeed. The wind, decidedly, was on a high, and it played many mischievous pranks upon street pedes-

GEN. GROSE. - Brigadier General Wm. Grose, commanding 3d brigade, 1st division, 4th army corps, arrived in the city yesterday morning from the front, and became the guest of the Louisville Hotel. He is en route for his home in Indiana on a brief furlough. THE FINAL CAMPAIGN.

All the signs of the times combine to show that the present is the final campaign against he great rebellion. The success of our armies and navies, the spirit of our soldiers, the opinons of our officers, the divisions, demoralization, and financial difficulties of the enemy, assure us that the triumph of justice, liberty, and peace is at hand.

Every energy should now be directed to prepare our armies for the last desperate struggle; for the rebellion will die, as it has lived, in blood. Especially should those noble patriots who shall be called to offer their blood on the altar of liberty, be prepared, so far as we can prepare them for this solemn service, by Christian instruction and earnest prayer. And when they fall, every succor that the love of Christ and of country can afford, should be at hand for their relief; nor should any soldier be alowed to die without having the hope of eternal ife through our Lord Jesus Christ presented to him, and without prayer to God for mercy in his name. This duty the delegates of the Christian Commission perform.

In one hundred and forty chanel tents our soldiers now assemble daily to read the publications furnished by the Commission, or to write etters to loved ones at home, and every night in the week, and three times on Sabbath, most of them being crowded with earnest worshippers, many of whom rise to ask prayer, and profess their design to lead Christian lives. Sixty additional tents are urgently demanded. The eading preachers of our land are offering their services, and, with one voice, attest the pres ence of the spirit of God in their assemblies The spring campaign has already opened Large amounts of money and goods are now needed to meet the battle-field and hospital wants that are already pressing, or may arise at any moment.

In this emergency the treasury is empty. The Christian Commission has no funds in bank, no nvestments of capital. Its only reliance has ever been faith in God and in God's people. This is God's work. He will provide the means for it. Every Christian is His agent. To such we now appeal for immediate help.

Will every returned delegate at once appoint and address meetings in his own locality, tell what he has seen and heard in the army, and receive and forward the offerings of Christian To the Ladies' Ald Societies and Christian Commissions we confidently appeal, that they immediately set about soliciting individual subscriptions from their friends, and, without waiting to make up large sums, forward them as fast as received. Mother, wife, would you wish your loved one to die on the field, without any to eceive his last message for you, or to kneel be side him and offer a prayer for his departing

Will ministers unite in holding Christian Commission meetings in their respective towns, without waiting for the visits of agents, and allow every member of their congregations the orivilege of contributing to this noble work? Will not the friends of the Christian Commis ion promptly respond, sending moneys to J G. Barrett, Esq., Treasurer of the Kentucky branch, Cashier of the Citizens' Bank, Louisville, Ky., and goods to J. Edward Hardy, No. m18 d&w1 ISAAC RUSSELL, Secretary.

ouse tumbling down occurred in Cincinnati on Thursday afternoon, attended with loss of life and great destruction of property. The building was a ware-room in the rear of the drug and paint store of G. Meldrum & Co., late W. H. Harrison's, on the south side of Fourth street, between Main and Walnut. It was three stories high, and mainly filled with windowglass. The soundness and strength of the walls and floor had never been questioned, and much greater quantities of goods had been stored in the building without causing any apprehensions. The unequal apportionment of the goods, perhaps, more than anything else, caused some portion of the structure to give away, which carried everything else with it, and the whole three stories came down with one simultaneous crash, walls, floors, roof, and all. The outside wall fell into the alley, where an expressman, Fred Sholl, was passing with his loaded wagon. Driver, horse, and wagon were crushed to the earth and enveloped in rubbish. When extricated, Mr. Sholl was found to have sustained two serious injuries, one a fracture of the skull in the back part of the head, and the other a large, deep wound under one of his eyes, from which he died early in the evening. He had only a few weeks since returned from three years' service in the army, and married a young ARTEMUS WARD .- Artemus Ward has met with unparalleled success in the city. The Masonic Temple has been thronged nightly with the elite of Louisville, and, judging by the smiling countenances, the audience always went away pleased with the entertainment. Artemus, in his lecture, says too many funny things for the people to be other than pleased. He brings his engagement to a close to-night, and we feel assurred that this announcement will be received with regret by the public. A matinee will be given this afternoon, and we doubt not that the hall will be crowded with ladies and little folks on the occasion. The panorama and A. Ward's jokes will prove a rare treat to the children. They will also find much to interest them in the descriptive part of the lecture. To-night will be the last opportunity that our citizens will have to attend the Mormon entertainment. Artemus Ward will pack his traps and go to amuse the denizens of another city on Monday night. Of course, the hall will be crowded to-night.

PETROLEUM. - Dr. A. S. Walker, of Allen county, is in the city, and has with him samples of the petroleum that can be had on his farm in abundance. The Doctor would be pleased to see any gentlemen who take an interest in this matter, and can very easily satisfy them of the profitable flow of the article on his farm. He can be found for a few days at the store of Heeter & Chaudoin, on Main, between Fifth and Sixth streets.

MAMMOTH CAVE ALABASTER.-We are informed that large quantities of pure white alabaster, of the finest quality, are being taken from the Mammoth Cave, and manufactured into ornaments of various kinds, such as neckappropriate manner. They paraded through laces, breastpins, ear-rings, crosses, charms, etc. This substance is susceptible of the highest polish, and the ornaments into which it is converted are greatly admired for their brilliancy and beauty.

> Brevet Brigadier-General J. Wager Swayne, a son of Hon. Noah H. Prior to the war, General Swayne was a young lawyer of Columbus, Ohio. He was wounded lately in a skirmish in South Carolina.

ART.-Messrs. Alcan & Gorbutt, of the Pho tographic Studio, are fast establishing an enviable reputation in the city. Their photographs and their portraits-paintings on canvas, and porcelain, and ivory-attract much attention, and show that the artists rank high in their profession. A visit to their studio will well repay the visitor.

CAPTURE AND BURNING OF A PASSENGER TRAIN ON THE LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE RAILROAD-

FULL PARTICULARS.—The report of the capture and destruction of the passenger train on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad by guerillas, on Tuesday night, excited great anxiety to learn the extent of the disaster. The Nashville Dispatch savs: The train was thrown from the track a short distance this side of Glasgow Junction, on it way to this city, at about seven o'clock in the evening. The track had been torn up for a distance of nearly one hundred yards, and when the train was thrown off, it was greeted with a volley of musketry from a band of about twenty guerillas, who appeared on the embankment above them, the affair occurring in the deep cut. They shouted like demons, and poured a second volley into the train, when the soldiers and train-guards returned the fire, but to no purpose, as the guerillas were pro-tected by the bank. The leader of the gang gave the command, in a stentorian voice, to compa-nies A, B, and C, to advance, and fire at will, as the same time demanding a surrender. The guards ceased firing, and they boarded the train like a pack of hungry wolves, stripping the passengers of all their money and valuables. The search was complete, and not even a finger-ring was spared. Several changes of clothing were effected, by which the rebels good ecidedly the best of the bargain. Captain Talmadge was robbed of $5,000. After completing the robbery of the passengers, they set fire to the train, commencing with the rear car, and placing combustibles under each of them, up to the lonotive. During the time the cars were burn one of the car swere parting, the band were occupied in selecting such rticles as they desired from the express ear, which was not ignited until they were about to lepart. After they were gone, the fire was put out, and the car saved. Sixteen men were ounded on the train, and one soldier is report-ikilled, and his body consumed in one of the ars. The baggage car, attached to the express, ontained all the private baggage of the passen-ers, and the United States malls. This car as also saved, and none of its contents were colested. General Orders, No. 4.

Reliable evidence has reached these headquarters that emissaries of the rebel government are emerged in recruiting for their exhausted armies in the State of Kentucky. Appeals are again made to the young men of the State to disregard their duty and risk their lives and honor in a wicked and desperate cause, while men who have described the rebel service and are now peaceably at their homes, are required to rejoin their commands, and again encounter the perils of treason, under the threatened penalty of betrayal to the Federal authorities, who, they are taught to believe, will treat them as outlaws and guerillas.
To counteract these efforts to mislead the men who have in good faith deserted the rebel service, all desertive from the rebel armies mow in this department, will, eithin thirty days from date, report themselves to the revoset Marshal of the county in which they reside for egistry, and all persons who may beauter desert from he rebel armies and come into the departmant, will, in thin five days after their arrival, report themselves or the same purpose.

Oil Creek and its tributary streams run directly through most of this The tract situated on Maguire's, rues iributary to Oil Creek, a few rods from the main stream, and about four milee from TTUSVILLE, consists of one hundred and nine acres in Fer, and is unusually well located, being a continuous gorge, through which rues the abovenamed creek. There is ample low land, terminating in high bluffs on either side, conveniently adapted for the sinking of over two hundred wells, and presenting indisputable evidences of superior oil territory. This tract is pronounced by experts in oil lands to be exceedingly promising, its topographical construction closely assimilating to lands which have proved immensely productive of oil. Extensive arrangements are being made by the United States, and other well-known companies, for developing the adjoining property, and, from its close proximity to already producing wells, the opinion is confidently entertained by judges that the yield of oil must be very large.

This tract, upon which is a saw-mill, is abundantly supplied with valuable timber, thus guarantoeing a sufficient supply of fuel for operative purposes. The tract situated on Maguire's, rues tributary to Oil

Thied.

The parcel of land marked on the Company's map a C, comprises fifty-four acres and fifteen rods in Fer. lo ated on the east branch of Caldwell Creek, which is nostly bottom-land, with high bluffs, heavily timbered ising abruptly on each side. This tract is strikingly dvantageous for boring purposes; the superficial evicaces of oil on it, and the successful experiments on the djoining property, give unmistakable promise of highly tisfactory results.
